

PTIC WEBSITE & LOGO

For many years PTIC has been using a file sharing service kindly provided by Peter Stoner for hosting meeting papers and other information. With Peter handing over the reigns it is only fair that alternative arrangements were put in place as whilst the arrangements have worked well for the group they did require Peter to carry out some tasks.

The hosting has been picked up by RTIG.

As a result the <https://pti.org.uk> domain that PTIC uses now has content management system that will allow multiple people to manage content and reduced reliance on individuals.

At the moment the site has only a few previous meeting documents online, but this will be fully back populated as time allows.

The plan is to have the change request / issues log populated and interactive to allow easier searching and management.

Whilst working on the website it became evident that it was time to change the logo, having used the blue one for many years:

The new logo picks up the colours of RTIG, Traveline and ATCO and provides for greater design freedom:
